DETROIT (AP) ... The United Auto Workers union said Sunday that it chose Fiat Chrysler as its target company in ongoing contract negotiations with Detroit automakers. Fiat Chrysler ... the smallest of the three companies ... now becomes the focus of bargaining and could be hit with a strike if negotiations stall.

A deal with FCA will also set a general pattern for contracts at General Motors and Ford. All three companies officially kicked off bargaining for new four-year contracts in July. The current contracts expire Monday but likely will be extended. The contracts cover around 140,000 U.S. factory workers. In a statement, UAW President Dennis Williams said all three automakers are "working hard" to reach an agreement and will continue negotiating even as the UAW turns its focus to FCA. FCA confirmed its selection but said it would have no further comment. WASHINGTON (Reuters) – New orders for long-lasting U.S. manufactured goods fell in February as the sector continued to struggle with the lingering effects of a robust dollar and lower oil prices. Washers and dryers are seen on display at a store in New York July 28, 2010. REUTERS/Shannon Stapleton While other data on Thursday showed an increase in the number of Americans filing for unemployment benefits last week, revisions to the prior weeks... figures showed the labor market was much stronger than previously thought. The resilience of the labor market has helped calm fears the economy was heading into a recession, and the combination of tightening labor market conditions and firming inflation likely keeps the Federal Reserve on course to steadily raise interest rates this year. ...The economy continues to hold its own despite a slowdown in many other countries around the world. The Fed can continue with its policy of gradual rate hikes,... said Chris Rupkey, chief economist at MUFG Union Bank

WASHINGTON (Reuters) – The number of Americans filing for unemployment benefits unexpectedly fell last week to a two-month low, pointing to labor market strength that could pave the way for the Federal Reserve to raise interest rates by December. The president of a California teacher's union has been branded a hypocrite after he was caught dropping off his two-year-old daughter at her private preschool – despite saying it was unsafe for kids to be in classrooms. Matt Meyer, president of the Berkeley Federation of Teachers, has fought for what he called the 'gold standard' for educators in his district – insisting public schools should reopen for in-person learning only when the teachers are vaccinated, among other criteria, according to KQED. However, he has since come under fire from angry parents after a group known as Guerrilla Momz followed Meyer and his daughter to her pre-school, where they captured him dropping her off for in-person lessons on February 18. 'Meet Matt Meyer. White man with dreads and president of the local teachers... union,' the group wrote on Twitter. The options being discussed include the lengthening the regular season from 16 games to 17 or 18 or the expansion of the playoff field from 12 teams to 14. While some owners have not given up on getting players to agree to an 18-game season, the union...s ongoing resistance is increasingly likely to turn the focus to adding playoff games, according to those with knowledge of the situation, who spoke on the condition of anonymity because of the confidentiality of the negotiations. AD AD It is unclear, however, whether owners might push for a 17-game regular season if the NFLPA remains adamantly opposed to 18 and whether players would be receptive. As for the preseason, it is becoming more certain that it will be cut to two or three games. One person close to the situation said it is ...safe to say that the preseason will be shortened at some point.... Democratic Convention Update: Organic Fanny Packs and a Ban on Fried Food In case you were worried about how Democratic convention planning is going in Denver: Don't worry. A "Director of Greening" has been hired, so everybody can relax. The Wall Street Journal reports on the Democratic convention's "lean 'n' green" catering rules: No fried food. And, on the theory that nutritious food is more vibrant, each meal should include "at least three of the following colors: red, green, yellow, blue/purple, and white." (Garnishes don't count.) The Supreme Court halted same-sex marriages in Utah on Monday, returning to center stage the question of whether there is a constitutional right to marry that states may not withhold from gay men and lesbians. In 1977 the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that state governments may force public-school teachers to pay mandatory union fees, as a condition of employment, regardless of whether or not those teachers are union members. Known as an "agency shop arrangement," this scheme was justified by the Court in Abood v. Detroit Board of Education on the grounds that the government has a lawful interest in preventing non-members from "free riding" on the union's collective-bargaining efforts. That decision, which provided a significant boon to public-sector unions around the country, has been in place ever since. Today the Supreme Court will hear oral arguments in a case that asks whether Abood should be overruled. *Friedrichs v. Union boss says Labour Party 'in peril' as Angela Eagle makes bid for leadership
The Labour movement was on the verge of all-out civil war as Angela Eagle prepared to launch a bid to oust Jeremy Corbyn. The challenge, which will be launched on Monday, was triggered by the collapse of peace talks between the party's deputy leader Tom Watson and the unions amid bitter recriminations. REUTERS/Koranyi Balazs/File Photo One union said hundreds more workers would join the strike on Sunday if an agreement over union demands for a wage increase and pension rights was not reached. Royal Dutch Shell said that due to the strike it was temporarily closing production at its Knarr field, which has a daily output of 23,900 barrels of mostly oil, but also natural gas liquids and natural gas. Shutting the field, whose owners are Idemitsu, Wintershall [WINT.UL] and DEA, could take up to 36 hours, it said. Norway is Western Europe...s biggest oil producer. The disruption added to a rise in global oil supply

Containers and ships sit idle at the Port of Long Beach, California in this aerial file photo taken February 6, 2015. LOS ANGELES Clogged ports along the U.S. West Coast were closed to cargo freighters for the third time in a week on Friday night, and shippers vowed to keep a partial shutdown in effect through Monday barring a settlement in labor talks with the dockworkers' union. The latest halt in loading and unloading of container ships at the 29 ports came as contract talks between union negotiators and management's bargaining agent, the Pacific Maritime Association, appeared to reach a critical juncture. The federal mediator who has sought for weeks to broker a deal called on Friday for a 48-hour news blackout after meeting with both parties together, and then separately, union and management representatives told Reuters. The two sides said they would abide by the mediator's request. The development followed a bargaining session on Thursday, the parties' first face-to-face meeting in

Last week, Amazon made changes to its internal online staff directory, deleting hundreds of thousands of entry-level warehouse workers... profiles from a tool that allows any company employee to view the full names and photos of other employees. What might seem like a run-of-the-mill company decision has sparked speculation among Amazon...s corporate employees on internal listservs and warehouse workers on platforms like Reddit that Amazon made the change to discourage potential union organizing at its warehouses. Thousands of Amazon warehouse employees in Alabama are currently voting on whether to form a union in the first large US union election in the company...s history. An Amazon spokesperson said the impetus for the move was to focus on improving a different app that warehouse employees use more often, and she declined to comment on the union speculation. The employee directory in question is known as the Amazon Phone Tool, which allows employees of all levels to do things like search fo

Jeremy Corbyn and his team are facing strong criticism from their MPs over briefings against Tom Watson after the deputy Labour leader spoke out against the influence of the grassroots movement Momentum and the leader of the Unite union, Len McCluskey. At an angry parliamentary Labour party meeting, senior figures including John Cryer and John Spellar said the party...s deputy leader was being wrongly vilified in anonymous attacks from sources close to the leader...s office. It followed a day of accusations and counterclaims by Watson and Corbyn allies over whether Momentum has a plan to increase its influence with the help of Unite. On Monday morning, Watson spoke to the media about comments by Momentum...s founder, Jon Lansman, who was secretly recorded addressing supporters at a meeting of a new branch in London this month. Watson had demanded that McCluskey respond to a secret recording claiming that the union would fund an expansion of activities by Momentum if he were re-elected as genera

Boeing executives met privately with the pilot unions at American and Southwest Airlines in the past week in a bid to assuage concerns they raised about the new Boeing 737 MAX 8 following the deadly Lion Air crash in Indonesia. The airlines operate the same aircraft involved in the Oct. 29 accident, and their pilot groups publicly criticized Boeing for failing to disclose a new safety feature on the plane. The control feature, an automatic anti-stall system, repeatedly pulled the plane's nose down and the pilots struggled to control the plane, according to a preliminary report Wednesday from Indonesia's National Transportation Safety Committee. The plane had experienced similar problems on a Lion Air flight the night before, but pilots on that flight had turned off the automatic safety feature. Boeing and the FAA issued a safety bulletin a week after the crash, and the airplane manufacturer has been in regular contact with airline and safety officials since the accident. But Boeing also too

(Reuters) – Southwest Airlines Co.'s shares fell more than 5 percent on Wednesday after the low-cost U.S. carrier said it was investigating whether a conflict with its mechanics union was leading to a spike in flight cancellations. The escalating labor dispute, one of the biggest to hit a top-four U.S. airline in more than a decade, comes amid a series of recent corporate headaches for the carrier. Dallas-based Southwest was forced to delay its planned Hawaii launch due to the recent U.S. government shutdown and on Wednesday cut its first-quarter revenue growth forecast. That followed news on Monday that the Federal Aviation Administration initiated a probe against the carrier in 2018 regarding weight and balance performance data. Shares of Southwest fell 5.7 percent to close at $54.41 on the New York Stock Exchange on Wednesday. The airline has canceled hundreds of flights since Feb. 15 due to a mixture of inclement weather and unscheduled maintenance issues that have put what it called an
